Mint Festival Royalty

Expectations and Commitments

Being a member of Mint Festival Royalty is an exciting, rewarding and memorable experience. The Mint Queen and her Court serve as ambassadors of the Mint Festival and the St. Johns area as they travel around mid-Michigan to events, festivals and parades. The year-long reign is a special opportunity to grow closer to our community, make new connections, and flourish as a young leader.

- At a meeting following the pageant, Court members, a parent/guardian, and the pageant committee will discuss detailed event schedules, commitments and court expectations. Court members will sign a statement that includes their commitment to represent the Mint Festival, their commitment to attend scheduled events, and their commitment to abide by all pageant rules and expectations.
- Official Court portraits will be scheduled between the pageant and the festival. Details will be coordinated with the committee, court, and photographer following the pageant.
- The pageant committee, chamber of commerce and court members will stay in contact throughout the year, with the Mint Queen acting as the main point of contact.
- The Court must be available for appearances throughout the entire weekend of the St. Johns Mint Festival, including the Grand Mint Parade, as well as community functions and mid-Michigan parades during their one-year reign.
- Appropriate attire is expected while attending functions. The event schedule and dress code will be communicated by the chamber of commerce and pageant committee.
- Visiting area festivals and parades is an exciting part of being Mint Festival Royalty. This requires travel to and from events within the mid-Michigan area. A parent or guardian must accompany Court members who are under 18 to any community functions and events.
- Court members represent the Mint Festival and the greater St. Johns community, so it is expected that they, and their accompanying parent/guardian are courteous, friendly, and respectful at all times. Inappropriate conduct during the pageant or reign may result in dismissal from the court.
- During their reign, court members may not participate in any other pageants without the express written permission of the Pageant Committee.
